BANTON CUTS 612 CASES from Criminal Docket

DISTRICT ATTORNEY BANTON announced yesterday that his calendar had been cut from 2,488 cases pending when he took office on January 1 to 2,103 at the present, a reduction of 385. One year ago, under District Attorney Swann, there were 2,406 cases pending.

Last week 179 cases, mostly crimes of violence, were disposed of. Since April 17, the beginning of the drive against crime, the total is 612 cases.

ONE SUSPECT IS TAKEN

Three Stores Are Robbed Near Former Gov. Smith's Home.

WOMAN GUARDS $1,000

Attempted Holdup. Fight. Chase on Rooftops End in 2 Captures in 42d St.

Two men entered the cellar store of Angelo Giorio, aged 41, a banana dealer at 32 Madison street, early yesterday and after robbing him of $173 at the point of a pistol, bound and gagged him and hung him with rope to one of his banana hooks in the wall. They escaped after forcing into a rear room a customer who had entered the cellar to buy bananas. The robbers warned the customer not to make any noise. Giorio was cut down by the customer. The banana dealer had been hanging several minutes and his throat was badly swollen and his face was beginning to turn blue.

This was one of three robberies that took place within a few hours and two blocks, and near the home of former Gov. Smith, 25 Oliver street, and the one time stamping ground of such old time Tammany politicians as Tom Foley.

The second robbery occurred in the store of the Greek-American News Company, 48 Madison street, the building owned by Michael Rafano, former Deputy Commissioner of Street Cleaning, and which at one time housed the old Tammany club of followers of Thomas J. Foley and later Rafano's insurgent Home Rule Democratic Club. The police later arrested Patrick Muglia, aged 21, of 124 Madison street, was held by Magistrate Max Levine in $5,000 bail for a later hearing.

Another Cellar Burglary.

The third burglary, across the street from the hanging of Giorio, was committed in the cellar of the Atlas Book Store, Inc., 25 Madison street, and the adjoining store to the jewelry shop of Demetrios Santoro, who was shot and killed by holdup men on February 23. An early pedestrian in Madison street noticed a rope lying on the sidewalk and reached into the coal chute leading to the basement under the Atlas Book store. Flickers of light came from the hole and soon two men ran from an alley near by and escaped. Investigation showed that the thieves had cut through the floor of the double layer between the basement and the store above. They had also taken about $30 in cash from a drawer in the basement. The cellar is used as a storehouse for ripening bananas.

Soon afterward Patrolman Edward Finn of the Oak street station, trying doors along his beat, saw the light in the Greek-American News Company store and rapped on the door. As he did so a man escaped through the rear window, the inch thick iron bars of which had been severed by a file. Rushing to James street Patrolman Finn caught Muglia, who was running from the place. He had several dollars in cash.

Chase Over House-tops.

A chase over roofs and house-tops on West Forty-first street yesterday morning at 10 o'clock ended in the capture of two bandits by four detectives of the Twenty-third precinct, immediately in front of 408 West Forty-second street.

The trouble began at 6 o'clock, when John Poulos, who conducts a restaurant at 27 West Forty-first street, was awakened in his home, at West Forty-first street, by the crash of broken glass. Upon investigation Poulos saw that the front door had been battered, but had not yielded to the intruders, who were seen disappearing down the street.

Just before 10 o'clock Poulos, with $1,000 cash in his pockets, that he had collected as rental, was confronted in the restaurant by two bandits, who told him to "stick 'em up." His wife, Lena, intervened and one bandit drew a razor and slashed her on the right arm. Meanwhile Daniel Call, an employee who had entered the fracas, was confronted by the bandits, who told him to "stick 'em up." The bandits were armed with a knife and a pistol. The bandits were seen disappearing down the street.

Detectors Porter, McNamara, Foley and Anderson, respectively, chased the bandits through a building in West Forty-first street, up to the roof and over the house-tops, finally capturing two men in West Forty-second street.

They were identified by Poulos and his wife and were locked up on charges of felonious assault and robbery. They gave their names as Nicholas Santo, aged 25, of 211 West Forty-third street, and Thomas Somerville, 31, of 408 West Forty-second.

Lena Poulos's wound necessitated minor surgery. She was also treated for lacerations of the eye.

Thieves succeeded in entering the store of H. J. Liebowski, women's dresses, at 121 West Twenty-sixth street, and breaking the windows of the store, made off with sixty-seven dresses early Friday.

Apparently the robbers were frightened by the chase, because when they were pelted ready to be carried off. Entrance was gained by the fire escape.

James Wren, aged 23, who gave his address as 554 West Thirty-fifth street, was arrested later charged with being implicated in the attempted holdup.

MENACING FIRE IN QUEENS.

Fire in the co-op of the A. C. Horn Company, Vernon avenue and Bayside street, Long Island City, threatened a conflagration yesterday because it was in the heart of the paint and varnish center. Fire companies from Long Island City, Astoria, and Greenpoint helped to fight the blaze and kept it confined to the Horn plant, with a loss of about $20,000.

$30,000 BURGLARY IN MRS. KEIM'S HOME

Philadelphia Woman's Summer Residence at Edgewater Park Looted.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. EDGEWATER PARK, N. J., May 6.—Burglars entered the summer home of Mrs. George De Bonnevillie Keim here early to-day and took away in a truck articles valued at $30,000.

Aside from the loot, it is estimated, the damage to the house would total $2,000, as doors leading from one room to another were smashed and handsome period furniture battered.

Mrs. Keim, widow of a former sheriff of Philadelphia, and a daughter of the late Rear Admiral Thomas U. S. N., is prominent socially in this city. She recently returned from a two-year's trip to Europe and the Orient and her Edgewater Park home has not been open in that time. Mrs. Keim and a son were in Lakewood Hotel for the week end.

Most of the booty was family silverware, but the thieves also got articles of jewelry and curios and rare bric-a-brac Mrs. Keim has collected in her travels.

Footprints showed three robbers took part. A revolver entered, furniture turned over and practically every drawer in the house opened.

Entrance to the house was forced through a window in a cupola. The task of reaching the cupola, apparently was extremely difficult. Marks on the side of the house showed the robbers climbed up a lighted ladder to the second story, then made the rest of the climb from window to window. Motor car tracks showed how the robbers hauled away their booty.

ARRESTED AS DIRECTOR OF YOUNG BOND THIEVES

Clerk, It Is Said, Sold Many Stolen Securities.

Charles Fox, aged 37, a clerk, of 165 East 121st street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of disposing of securities stolen from firms in the financial district. The larceny of ten $1,000 Victory bonds from McDonald & Co., brokers, of 129 Broadway, November 23 last, he said to him. Information said to have been given to the police by Harry Schimel, a former bank messenger, now in prison, indicates that Fox handled securities stolen from other concerns. Fox denies the charge and declares he does not know Schimel.

Schimel, alias "Bergman," aged 23, of 239 Kingsbridge road, the financial district, but in March, 1919, was arrested for the theft of $3,000 worth of Liberty bonds from Mayson & Co., brokers, of 45 Wall street. He pleaded guilty when arraigned, but was released on probation by Judge Rosalesky. On March 25 last he was arrested again, charged with the theft of securities from a messenger of Prince & Co., brokers, of 20 Broad street, and pleaded guilty.

Judge Rosalesky imposed a sentence of from two to four years in Sing Sing for the first offense and remanded the young man to the Tombs until last Friday for sentence on his second offense. Sentence was deferred indefinitely when detectives Mayer and Brown went to Judge Rosalesky Friday and advised him that Schimel had told them that he had been influenced by Fox in the Prince robbery, declaring that he was not the real culprit. He said Fox had disposed of $50,000 worth of securities. Schimel told the detectives that Fox gave him only a small portion of the yield of the securities, usually about $100 on a transaction.

LARKIN IN TOMBS CELL ON STATE INDICTMENT

Radical Just Out on Bail From Great Meadows.

James Larkin, Irish labor agitator, just freed from Great Meadows prison in Connecticut, where he had served two years of a five to ten year sentence for criminal anarchy, was a prisoner in the Tombs last night on a charge of acting in concert with others in publishing in the Revolutionary Age an article advocating the overthrow of the American Government by force. The indictment was returned by a Grand Jury in New York county on November 26, 1919, and Larkin was rearrested on a bench warrant issued by the Supreme Court. Warrants issued by the Department of Labor in Washington for the arrest of Larkin are in the Tombs and he will be served in case he is released on bail the Revolutionary Age.

One of these warrants, dated January 15, 1921, charges that Larkin is an alien anarchist, and the other, dated March 13, 1922, charges that he violated the United States in landing at the port of New York on November 2, 1914.

Larkin gave his age as 42 years, and said he had a wife and children in Ireland. He gave his address as 53 Jane street, New York.

John O'Leary, counsel for Larkin, appeared at the Tombs last night with an attorney, Justice Finch in the Supreme Court directing that Larkin be released in custody of his counsel, but when the Tombs officials showed O'Leary the two Federal warrants which had been lodged against Larkin the lawyer admitted there was nothing more that could be done.

MOTOR AND PET MONKEY GO AS SHE PLAYS GOLF

Theft of Animal Is Felt More by Mrs. Engstrom.

Mrs. Angelo Engstrom, 13 West Seventy-fifth street, reported to the Kingsbridge police station yesterday that her pet monkey and her lawnmower had been stolen while she was playing golf in Van Cortlandt Park. She left the car, a coupe, on Broadway with the monkey inside for about fifteen minutes and she said.

Mrs. Engstrom said she did not mind losing the automobile so much as the monkey. She bought it in Honolulu and has become much attached to it. The monkey is eight months old. His name is Skipper. It is a favorite with the children about his home.

BLAZE IN ST. NICHOLAS CLUB.

A fire, originating from a defective fuse, started on the ground floor of the St. Nicholas Club at 7 West Forty-fourth street, near Fifth avenue, yesterday afternoon, and more than a hundred persons ran to the street. The firemen remained and watched the firemen until the blaze was under control.

ROBBED TO A HYMN TUNE.

OMAHA, May 6.—Two masked bandits, who told their victims they were once in a church choir, sang the hymn which includes the words, "We will come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves," as they held up and robbed several persons, including women, in a drug store here. They obtained $300.

SLAIN GIRL'S TEETH NOT MULLER WHITE'S

Dentist's Comparison of Asylum Data With Skull Disproves Identification.

Identification of the Chesapeake Mountain cave murder victim as Lillian White, former Brooklyn girl, was doubted yesterday after Dr. Arthur L. Munson, a dentist of Sparkill, examined the reconstructed skull and failed to find that two molars were missing from the upper jaw as indicated by the dental history of Miss White at Leitch-Water Valley Home for Feeble Minded Girls, of which she was an inmate.

The unexpected turn caused Morton Lexow, District Attorney of Rockland, to assume personal charge of the investigation, and his first act was to dispose of the services of Felix B. Di Martini, a private detective, who, with William T. Stahlman, Jr., the Coroner, had taken the skull to the Sparkill dentist.

There was no explanation for discharging Di Martini, but it was said that the prosecutor did not like the publicity in the matter. Di Martini had been retained by George Brown, Rockland county Sheriff, to aid him in the investigation. Mr. Lexow obtained from Di Martini what information he had obtained and then told him his services would be no longer required.

When the reconstructed skull of the murder victim was identified by Mrs. Lexow, it was found that the teeth were not those of Lillian White, but those of a girl named Mrs. Rose Doran, as that of their sister, Lillian White, Di Martini went to the asylum and obtained the girl's history from Dr. Little, the superintendent. This showed that she was 21 years old, having been born on May 31, 1899, was somewhat round shouldered, wore glasses and that two molars were missing from her upper jaw.

Dr. Munson's examination of the skull showed that the jawbone was out of its socket and the teeth had been forced into the upper jaw. Only one of which was a molar. One tooth had been filled in two places and three others in one place. There also had been four extractions of lower jaw teeth and another tooth appeared to be dead.

The night the reconstructed skull was identified the relatives of Miss White said she had protruding teeth in the front upper jaw. Dr. Munson stated that articulation was perfect and there were no anterior protrusions.

Di Martini was in no way responsible for identification of the victim as Miss White. The detective was working along an entirely different line when Grant Williams, a former police captain, who has one time headed the missing persons bureau of the New York Police Department, was called in. Mr. Williams reconstructed the skull and the identification followed.

RUSTON SAYS PUBLICITY SPOILS JACKSON INQUIRY

Assails Medical Examiner for Giving Out Statement.

No progress apparently was made yesterday in the investigation undertaken by county and city authorities to clear up the mystery surrounding the death of Mr. and Mrs. Brown. Jackson, an aged couple, found dead on April 25 in their apartment in the Hotel Margaret Annex, in Brooklyn. District Attorney Rufus W. Lusk yesterday issued a statement rebuking Dr. Charles Norris, Medical Examiner, for disclosing information concerning the exhumation of the body of Mrs. Brown. Jackson, down of an investigation that Dr. Norris had planned to conduct in his office in Manhattan in the hope that more light might be thrown upon the death mystery. E. D. Dupuy, manager of the Hotel Margaret, Mary King, a chambermaid, and a man who had furnished the basement of the hotel annex about the time of the death of the Browns, had been subpoenaed to testify before the Medical Examiner, but they failed to appear. Two detectives were examined, after which the hearing was adjourned.

SIX SHOPLIFTERS GET JAIL TERMS OR FINES

One Excuse Was No Money to Buy Easter Dress.

Four men and two women shoplifters arrested by detectives of the Stores Mutual Protective Association pleaded guilty in Special Sessions yesterday. The men received prison sentences. One woman was sent to the penitentiary and the other was fined $50.

Emil Tobolsky, 26, and his wife, Jennie, 20, 1119 First avenue, admitted stealing a child's dress valued at $15 on April 1 from a Broadway department store. Their excuse was that they had no money to buy an Easter dress for their twelve-year-old daughter. The man got twenty days in the workhouse; his wife was fined $50.

Adelaide Fitzpatrick, 22, 514 West Twenty-ninth street, admitted stealing a pair of bloomers valued at $3.85 from the same store and was sent to the penitentiary for not less than six months or more than three years. She was a second offender.

FALLING RAIL KILLS MAN UNDER BROOKLYN BRIDGE

B. R. T. Train Probably Ripped Off Current Carrier.

Thomas Vailando, aged 49, of 563 Forty-fifth street, Brooklyn, was crossing High street under the Brooklyn Bridge last night when a steel section of the B. R. T. train fell five feet long, weighing fifty pounds, fell from the elevated structure thirty-five feet above and struck him on the head. An ambulance surgeon said he was killed instantly.

The B. R. T. management thought the rail, "nose piece," or section where the "shoe" picks up the rail after crossing a switch had been ripped off by a passing train.

COLUMBIA CANOEISTS NEAR DEATH IN RIVER

Saved by Naval Militia Men Off 97th Street.

Two Columbia University students, who gave the names of Jack Noshner and James Van Ripper, had narrow escapes from drowning when their canoe capsized off 100th street. The pair clung to the end of the canoe and were carried with the tide down to Ninety-ninth street, where Bern Smith, B. M. first class, and George Donnelly, Q. M. first class, on the U. S. S. Illinois, First Battalion Naval Militia, rushed to the dock and threw them out to the pair.

They were dragged ashore and dried out on the Illinois.

MAN HAD TRIED FOR YEAR TO GAIN ENTRANCE.

A man who said he was Selman Smith, 37, no occupation, of Middlebourne, W. Va., was taken to Bellevue Hospital late yesterday for observation after he had tried to enter the home of Mrs. Henry C. Frick at 1 East Seventieth street. At the Frick home it was said he had been trying to gain access to the house for more than a year.

When he presented himself at the front door yesterday he told the butler he wanted to see either Mrs. Frick or her daughter, Helen Frick, because his "future lay in that house."

Another servant called the East Sixty-seventh street station. Detective Louis Smith, Jr., and Detective Helen Frick, of the station, Dr. Jeddicks of Flower Hospital advised that he be sent to Bellevue.

$12,000,000 Available for Soldier Hospitals

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Through passage by the Senate Congressional action was completed to-day on the bill providing immediately available $12,000,000 for construction of hospitals for former service men as a part of a program calling eventually for the expenditure of $17,000,000.

Y. M. C. A. GIRLS LEAD IN THIEF PURSUIT

Alfred Torff, 31, of 28 East Seventy-fourth street, sought, according to the police, as a "week end" burglar, who has carried out eight or more thefts in the residential section in the Fifties, between Park and Madison avenues, entered the Young Women's Christian Association building at Lexington avenue and Fifty-second street late yesterday afternoon. He went to the fifth floor, it is alleged, where he searched one of the offices and found a strong box containing $33.

Holding the box under his arm, he started for the stairs, when he was seen by Miss Gertrude Voightland, clerk in the physical education department. She gave a cry of fright, and the man dashed down the stairs. Miss Voightland followed, and by the time Torff reached the first floor twenty-five young women had gathered and, under the leadership of Miss Voightland, ran after him.

Torff turned into Fifty-second street. At Park avenue and Fifty-second street Patrolman Reynolds was directing traffic. He dashed after the man and drew his revolver, ordering him to halt, but Torff kept on and in the congestion of traffic Reynolds was afraid to shoot. The chase continued in Park avenue to Fifty-third street, where Reynolds drew himself on Torff. He did not have the strong box, but his pursuers said they saw him throw it away.

In the East Fifty-first street station Torff was arrested and admitted a series of thefts. He was said to have had a watch and chain stolen from Dr. A. McIntosh in the Babies Hospital, Avenue A, and Fifty-fifth street, and a ring also were found on him, according to the police. Torff admitted stealing from the Rev. Wilson McDonald of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

INTRUDER IN CRESCENT CLUB HELD AS BURGLAR

Man With Robbers' Tools Says He Became Lost.

Edward J. Bedell, aged 27, who was arrested Friday night in a washroom of the Crescent Athletic Club, Pierrepont and Clinton streets, Brooklyn, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Geismar in Adams Street Court charged with carrying burglars' tools and sent to jail in default of $300 bail for a hearing Friday.

When arrested Bedell gave his address as the Army and Navy Club, 112 Central Park South. At the club it was said an Edward Bedell belonged to the club, but did not live there. Although Bedell said he served as an aviator in the war, the police contend he has admitted several previous arrests for abandonment, petty larceny and carrying burglars' tools. He explained his presence in the Crescent Club by saying that he was on his way to a dinner and got lost.

DETECTIVES RAID BARN; SEIZE 150 GAMBLERS

Fines of $25 Each Paid by 108 in Passaic.

Thirty Passaic detectives, led by Capt. Benjamin F. Turner, dashed in automobiles to the grounds of Thomas Foxhall, Sr., in Brook avenue, Passaic, yesterday and drew revolvers and riot guns held ready, captured 150 men charged with gambling in an old barn. So rapidly was the raid conducted that lookout did not have time to give the alarm. The men were charged with betting on horse races and playing poker. The ground floor of the barn, said the detectives, had been converted into a lounge room, where only soft drinks were served.

It required two hours to transfer all the prisoners to Passaic Police Headquarters, where they were arraigned before Judge Costello, who held in $1,000 bail each Samuel Klein of 506 South Eleventh street, Newark; Tony Caviechi of 101 Jefferson street, Newark; and Gustave Foehl of McBride avenue, Paterson.

Judge Costello fined 102 of the men $25 each when they pleaded guilty to the gambling. Forty others who at first pleaded not guilty changed their minds and decided to plead guilty, but said they had no money. Judge Costello ordered them to appear in court with a roll of bills and paid their fines.

FOX HILLS HOSPITAL TO BE SOLD MAY 27

Enough Lumber to Build 1,000 Homes Will Be Disposed Of.

The Government's Hospital at Fox Hills, Staten Island, which was vacated recently by soldier patients being treated by the Public Health Service, will be sold at public auction on Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27, in accordance with arrangements made yesterday by the Treasury Department through the United States Veterans Bureau. The group, which consists of eighty-four buildings, will be put under the hammer by Charles S. Gerth, auctioneer of Gerth's Realty Experts, and the conditions of the sale will provide for the removal of all buildings by July 30.

The hospital's patients, many of them transferred here from other hospitals in and around New York and to Public Health Service institutions in other parts of the country. Pending the sale Dr. H. A. Axline will be in charge of the property for the Government. The Fire Department, which has twenty-five members, and the guard of twelve men will be maintained to protect the property until it is sold.

Fox Hills Hospital was completed in the spring of 1918 at a cost of about $2,500,000, and from that time until early this year, when it was ordered closed, it had been a source of constant annoyance to the Government because of protests against the environment and the service that was being accorded to the disabled veterans. After two years of protest by patients, army officers, members of the American Legion and various civic organizations, Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans Bureau, declaring that conditions at Fox Hills were deplorable, petitioned the Government to abandon the institution.

He represented that there was no way to make the place safe or congenial for the patients and expressed the opinion that if a fire should break out 500 bed-ridden patients probably would perish. This was followed by other protests and investigations, the complaints including a charge that only one nurse had been provided for every 300 patients and that drugged milk was being served to the wounded soldiers.

Early this year a delegation of wounded soldiers called upon President Harding in person and presented a petition signed by 300 Fox Hills patients urging that the hospital be abandoned and a short time after that the President took steps to have it closed. The transfer orders called for the vacating of the hospital by March 31, but it was a week or so later before all the patients had been removed.

At the time the order was issued 856 patients were in the hospital. Most of the tuberculosis patients were transferred to the city's Sea View Hospital, near New Dorp, Staten Island, where they are being cared for on contract.

The lumber in the buildings at Fox Hills is sufficient to provide homes for almost 1,000 families, it was said. The hospital has three miles of cypress and wards sufficient to care for more than 3,000 patients.
